

Fertiliser Market 2021- 2022

- For much of 2021 and now into 2022 the huge increases in gas price have had a negative effect on the price of raw materials. A large drop in the production of fertilisers has been seen and this has had an overall impact on the quantity and variety of fertilisers available to the international market.
- Cobb Agri are working tirelessly with our suppliers to ensure the flow of products to our customers, despite many obstacles in production and difficulties with supply chains, in deliveries and financing of vastly increased prices of commodities.
- Having access to many years' worth of data for each client, we can carefully target the most important elements in the nutrient management programme on an individual basis. This allows us to recommend switching products where needed to ensure sufficient and correct nutrients are available at the critical times for crop growth without compromising yield. All of this is balanced with the challenges of farm budgets, weather conditions and deficits in stock levels at a national level.
